Queen Jane

253

Queen Jane sat at her window one day, A- sewing a silken seam, And
 She looked out at the merry greenwood, And she saw the green nut tree, And she Saw the green nut tree.

2) She dropped her thimble at her heel,
 and her needle at her toe,
 And away she ran to the merry green wood,
 To gather nuts and so. (Repeat last line.)

3) She scarce had reached the green nut tree,
 And had pulled but two or three,
 When a proud forester came striding by,
 Saying, "Fair maid, let those be." Repeat last line.)

4) "Why do you pull the nuts," he said,
 "And why do you break the tree,
 And why do you come to this merry green wood,
 Without the leave of me?" (Repeat last line.)

5) "Oh, I will pull the nuts," she said,
 "And I will break the tree,
 And I will come to this merry green wood.
 I will ask no leave of thee." (Repeat last line.)

6) He took her by the middle so small,
 And he gently laid her down.
 And when he got what he longed for,
 He raised her from the ground. (Repeat last line.)

7) "Oh, woe to you, proud forester,
 And an ill death may yours be.
 As I am the king's youngest daughter," she said,
 "You will pay for wronging me." (Repeat last line.)

8) "If you're the king's youngest daughter," he said,
 "Then I'm his eldest son.
 And woe to this unhappy day,
 And the wrong that I have done." (Repeat last line.)

9) "The very first time I came from sea,
 Jane, you were unborn.
 And I wish my gallant ship had sunk,
 And I been left forlorn. (Repeat last line)

- 10) "The very next time I came from sea,
You were on your nurse's knee.
And the very next time I came from sea,
You were in the woods with me. (Repeat last line.)
- 11) "I wish I ne'er had seen your face,
And that you had ne'er seen mine.
And woe to this unhappy hour
That we met here alone." (Repeat last line.)
- 12) "I wish to God my babe was born,
And on its nurse's knee.
And as for me, I was dead and gone,
And the green grass growing over me." (Repeat last line.)
